

Ceres® International Leadership Development

The Center for Food, Nutrition, and Agriculture Policy is a "destination" for global leaders in policy and regulatory decision-makers seeking specialized coursework and training opportunities in risk analysis and policymaking. The CFNAP faculty provides customized short courses and individual lectures that enhance international leadership development in food safety, nutrition, and agriculture policy. Ceres International Leadership Development programs include:

Dutch Delegation. "Nanotechnology in Food," organized by the Atlantic & Pacific Exchange Program. April 13, 2007.

Polish Delegation. U.S. Department of Agriculture Borlaug Fellow, Izabela Tanska. "Consumer Attitudes and Regulatory Policy in the U.S." March 8, 2007.

Chinese Delegation. "Introduction to the U.S. Food Safety Risk Assessment, Risk Management, Food Safety Standards, and Risk Communication" organized by Texas A&M University and sponsored by USDA Foreign Agricultural Service Cochran Program on Food Safety, September 14-15, 2006.

Chinese Delegation from Henan Province. "Risk Analysis Principles and Practices" organized by the Institute for Global Chinese Affairs, September 13, 2006.

Dutch Delegation. "Nutrition and Health Claims on Foods," presentation and discussion with food safety and nutrition regulatory policy, organized by the Atlantic & Pacific Exchange Program, March 16, 2006.

Chinese Delegation. Second World Trade Organization Sanitary/Phytosanitary Leadership Development Program in cooperation with the Institute for Global Chinese Affairs and the Joint Institute for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition, March 15, - April 28, 2006.

Sicilian Delegation. "Food and Nutrition Policy in the U.S.," Deputy Chief of Giornale di Sicilia, a regional daily newspaper arranged by Meridian International Center under the auspices of the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, April 22, 2004.

South African Delegation. "Policymaking in the U.S.," presentation for the Ceres® International Leadership Program in Biotechnology, sponsored by the USDA Cochran Fellowship Program, September 15, 2003.

Chilean Delegation. "Risk Communication and Biotechnology," presentation for the Ceres® International Leadership Program in Biotechnology (Chilean Delegation), sponsored by the USDA Cochran Program, January 30, 2003.

U.S. Department of State. "International Biotechnology Issues," presentation for the Foreign Service Institute, December 5, 2002.

Hungarian Delegation. "Policymaking in the U.S.," presentation for the Ceres® International Leadership Program in Biotechnology, sponsored by the USDA Cochran Fellowship Program, October 8, 2002.

Moroccan Delegation. "The U.S. Regulatory System for Foods Derived from Modern Biotechnology," Training program for the Ceres® International Leadership Program in Biotechnology, USDA, Foreign Agricultural Service, Cochran Fellowship Program, July, 2002.